GENERAL EXPLANATIONS ABOUT ASTROLOGICAL INTERPRETATION

Astrology can enlighten our behavior and clarify correlations in life. However, it can't and shouldn't pin a person down. An astrological birth picture consists of symbols that have been translated into words and concrete examples in the following text. For the sake of clarity, some examples have been exaggerated.

What astrology has to say can be explained by using examples. You have different aspects of your personality like your will, feelings, rational mind, etc. Imagine these to be actors who are staging the play of "life" together. Astrology describes the actors, their qualities and weaknesses, and their relationships with each other. But astrology has little to say about the play that is being acted. You decide this with your free will.

Experienced actors to whom you can constantly give new stage directions are necessary for a good play. The more you know the needs of your actors, the more you can bring them together into a harmonious and unified "play" and let them express themselves on your life's stage. The following pages will be a guide for doing this.

When reading them, you will discover contradictions. For example: one section describes the need for a calm and stable relationship, and another section says that you need stimulation and variety within a relationship. Such a contradiction contains the demanding challenge to express both opposites.

The following text is not a "fortune-telling horoscope" because you alone are the architect of your own destiny. The horoscope describes the "raw material" that you have available.

APPEARANCE

The Ascendent symbolizes the "display window" or the "mask" of your personality, which means the qualities that you primarily exhibit to the outside world and other people initially perceive in you. It indicates an area with which you are familiar on the one hand, but challenges you throughout your lifetime to intensively develop your personality on the other hand.

Ascendent in Leo

At the Focus of Attention

With the Ascendent in Leo, people look at you when you make an appearance and you stand as the focus of attention before you have hardly said three words. There is something impressive about your appearance, which is similar to that of a lion. You easily catch other people's attention and they listen to you. Your spontaneous behavior makes a confident, generous, and cordial impression, although it can easily become a touch too condescending or pretentious. Life challenges you time and again to not only show courage, cordiality, and leadership talent as a "mask" to the outside world but to also let these attributes become your inner qualities. By more or less playing the role of the person who is self-assured and energetic, you will form your character in this direction. As a result, you will stabilize your self-confidence and "radiant power."

The Ascendent is like a pair of glasses through which you can perceive the surrounding world with a special hue. You see the world from the perspective of an organizer and a doer, have an overview of the situation, and take action. In the process, you may overlook other people's wishes and emotions without even noticing it. Formulated in an extreme way, you are similar to a king who benevolently tolerates his surrounding world. If you look at yourself from a neutral perspective, you may recognize numerous situations where you have unjustly pushed aside other people in order to radiate at the center yourself. You value anyone who shows you recognition. But a person who is not willing to admire you hardly exists in your eyes. This may be formulated a bit too harshly, but you should at least be able to find that your behavior tends in this direction.

Sun on the Ascendent

I Want to Show Myself

The Sun as the symbol for the ego identity and will stands in the display window of your personality, so to speak. You therefore will probably feel a strong need to show yourself and tackle life's challenges. Something inside appears to be nudging you, calling to you over and over again: get moving, make something out of your life! You need your place in the sun, which means a position in life that makes it possible for you to apply your energy and radiant power in, for example, an appropriate profession. The simple and yet so comprehensive two words "I am" are a keynote for you. They stimulate and support you in shaping your life in such a way that you don't have to hide your light under a bushel.

Jupiter on the Ascendent

Generous Manners

You probably often discover that others have a high opinion of you, even if you don't make any special effort to this effect. You radiate a generous openness that can hardly be responded to in any other way but with goodwill. The bridge that you build between yourself and the world is broad and generous. Through your encounter with the surrounding world, you would like to expand your horizon and gather experiences, thereby displaying few reservations and limitations. You have a certain something with which you leave a good impression almost everywhere you go. The only disadvantage of this character trait is that hardly anyone in your surroundings puts you in your place, possibly making it hard for you to recognize your limitations.

Pluto on the Ascendent

An Alarming Amount of Energy

There is something secretive about you that can have both an attracting and simultaneously frightening effect on others. You tend to be restrained, yet you still radiate an enormous amount of energy. During the first years of your life, you possibly experienced the world as threatening. The causes for this may have been a difficult birth, illness, or an environment that wasn't friendly to children. The experience of having had to fight for survival creates a reserved attitude toward the surroundings and a fixed concept of how people and things should be. You practically appear to sense danger everywhere and protect yourself from it either through reserve or exercising power and control.

Since you have an extraordinary amount of energy available to you and should also express it, a powerful position in some area of life is an urgent necessity. The more you can purposefully let all of your "power" flow into your behavior, the less you or someone else will become the victim of this primeval energy. This includes accepting both the dark, compulsive aspects and the powerful sides of your own character.

ESSENTIAL NATURE AND WILL

Just as the Sun is the central star of the solar system in astronomical terms, it also symbolizes the essential nature of a human being in astrology. Its position in the birth picture tells us something about our ego-consciousness, about our will and the way in which we shape our lives.

Sun in Leo

I am the Center of My Universe

You are courageous and proud at the core of your being. Like a real lion, you lay claim to attention. You want to stand at the center of things, organize and command, and you also have the talent to do this. However, it's important that you also offer something to others. It isn't enough to take the right to leadership upon yourself. You need specialized knowledge and ability to justify your claim to leadership. Otherwise, your behavior will be understood by your fellow human beings as striving for dominance, and you won't receive the recognition that you would like to have.

You are willing to tackle life. The means to do this, a strong will and endurance, are qualities that you have in abundance. You quickly get an overview of a situation and take hold of an opportunity without much hesitation. At the same time, you act on the basis of an inner conviction. If this is lacking, you probably won't do anything.

You radiate a natural cordiality and generosity. One side of you is quite playful, ready for fun or risk at any time. This combination of leadership quality and the enjoyment of fun and games could also indicate a good interaction with children and youth.

Your guiding motives are will and vigor. You like to overlook anything that reminds you of the limits of your strength, such as illness, old age, and weakness. Should you excessively avoid everything that reminds you of these facts, you risk spending your life on the lonely "throne" of will and strength, without experiencing the emotionally deep and enriching sides of life.

Sun in the Twelfth House

Self-Realization in Seclusion

Like every human being, you too have an ego. However, in contrast to your egotistical tendencies, you probably also feel a pull toward living entirely for something bigger, where there no longer are any personal boundaries. So many things may revolve around the issue of whether you are a self-sufficient individual with a will of your own or part of something irrational and incomprehensible. Work in hospitals or other "closed walls" can be an expression of this contradiction, as well as helping, meditative, or artistic activities.

You probably don't have it easy when it comes to developing a clear concept of your life. Perhaps you feel like the dreaming coachman: the horses are running off somewhere. You need much time in peace and seclusion so that you can find out what you want in life.

Sun/Jupiter in Conjunction

The Sense for Greatness

You have a sense of initiative and optimism. Your open and tolerant attitude makes things easier for you in life. In a generous and uncomplicated manner, you always do the right thing. You have a holistic perspective of a situation and practically see the direction in which things are headed. Apart from the tendency to overestimate yourself, your decisions are probably be right most of the time. You have an idealistic attitude and want to identify with something larger than yourself. The company, the nation, or an ideology are some examples of what your idealism may be related to.

Your need for a pleasant and generous lifestyle can let you become a master of the art of living who keeps restrictive working conditions at arm's length. If another aspect of your being tends toward discipline and responsibility, the need for a generous lifestyle may also cause you to create the foundation for material affluence through work.

Sun/Neptune in a Harmonious Aspect

Being Carried By the River of Life

An aspect of your personality would like to dissolve all boundaries and devote itself to a broader view of things. This makes you impressionable, influenceable, and dedicated; yet, it also weakens your personal will and your ability to assert yourself. You are open and sensitive to your surroundings. Your path in life and your will are influenced by your fellow human beings and the external situation in general. You probably have to retreat into peace and seclusion in order to find out what you want. Defining your position, setting clear goals, and then also translating these into action, is important to you. In concrete terms, your openness and sensitivity can express itself in an enormous willingness to help others. You do many things for the sake of your fellow human beings and perhaps get the worst of the deal yourself.

The ego-dissolving principle can also be experienced through music, meditation, religion, a strong relationship to water, to chaos, addiction, or addicts. This fundamentally deals with letting a greater whole penetrate the ego consciousness and not getting swept away - exposing your own ship to the wind and waves but still keeping the helm in your hand. Learning to do this is a life-long process.

FEELINGS AND TEMPERAMENT

The Moon symbolizes the emotional, childlike/passive, and receptive principle. It stands for the needy part of us that would like to live according to its feelings and spontaneously reacts according to desire or reluctance. In this part of our personality, we are sensitive and impressionable, perceive moods, and need a sense of security and warmth. We can imagine this part to be like a small child within us. If it gets what it needs, we feel good and lively. However, we often have to go through periods of stagnation and discontentment before we recognize and satisfy its needs.

The Moon embodies the feminine principle and also stands for the aspect within us that, full of caring willingness, would like to be a "mother" in the broadest sense of the word. It wants to look after others and create a sense of security.

Moon in Taurus

Sensual and Modest

You are a warm-hearted person. "Live and let live!" is your motto. You like enjoying peace and quiet, relaxation, a good meal, and a glass of wine in a familiar environment. You presumably very much value security and steadfastness. You need some sort of territory of your own, a quiet place that belongs to you, to which you can retreat and enjoy life. When you have this, you are content with yourself and the world.

You tend to react slowly and with an even temper, as well as acting reserved when it comes to something new. You are also reliable and persevering. Your patience hardly knows any limits. The other aspect of these qualities is indolence and convenience/laziness; and this sometimes applies to you as well. You put up with unsatisfying situations for a very long time - sometimes perhaps too long. However, at some point even you will see red, and then you can become very unpleasant. You are a bit like a good-natured bear that people can ruffle and nudge for a long time. But when things go too far, it demands respect with one single stroke of its paw.

In life and reality, you stand with both feet on the ground. You have a strong relationship to the material world and to your body. Physical contact is something you value and need, and probably can't get enough of. Sensuality and eroticism are important to you. You have a good gift of observation and collect impressions one after the other without letting yourself be overly strained or deluged by them.

Moon in the Eleventh House

The Need to Belong to a Group

You probably feel good among friends, on a team, and in groups of like-minded people. You often take on caring functions, look after the well-being of friends and work colleagues by, for example, organizing refreshments or offering your home as a place to meet. In this way, you like to look after a group and assume a type of mother role, which gives you a sense of security and belonging. It can hardly be avoided that you will occasionally be taken advantage of as a result. You possibly are looking for an "adopted" family, meaning a group in which you are more at home and feel more security and emotional warmth than in your original family. In such a circle of like-minded people, you find your own feelings and can discover an inner source of well-being and joy in life.

You need emotional freedom and independence. It's possibly difficult for you to commit yourself to something for the long term. You prefer to keep your distance and leave all the possibilities open. In the long run, you must find a middle path between the need for independence and the need for belonging.

Moon/Neptune in a Harmonious Aspect

With Great Intuitive Understanding

You are sensitive, compassionate, and understanding. When someone suffers, you feel it. You have an open heart and ear for others, and you can respond to your fellow human beings with much sensitivity. You perceive the mood in your surroundings and let yourself be influenced by it. When you are together with someone who is sad, for example, you also take on this sadness. This means that you are inundated by other people's feelings, and it becomes difficult for you to feel your own needs if you don't clearly draw the line.

You have an immense potential for devotion and can experience a sense of complete solidarity with other people or nature. You probably also have a rich fantasy and a strong relationship to the unconscious mind. It may be that your inner world is so beautiful and enticing that you shy away from sober external reality. Music may mean much to you since it can appease the longing for unity and a sense of security, at least for a time.

It may be that you don't find yourself in this description. Our society tends to assign qualities like sensitivity and softness to the feminine gender. So it is conceivable that you have chosen a partner who is distinctly sensitive and capable of great devotion in order for you to repeatedly come into contact with these qualities.

COMMUNICATION AND THOUGHT

Mercury symbolizes the area of our personality related to thinking, information, and communication. The position of Mercury in a birth picture throws light on a person's way of thinking, preferred interests, and learning methods, as well as language and rhetorical abilities.

Mercury in Leo

With Strong Powers of Imagination

Your strength lies in broadminded thinking. You grasp facts and marginal conditions quickly and are good at inferring. You quickly recognize the possibilities inherent to a situation with accuracy, attain an overview, and plan your next steps. Strong powers of imagination, possibly with a dramatic touch, let events almost start rolling on their own. When you mentally organize a project, you do this from a comprehensive perspective. Trivial details aren't any fun for you. You prefer to dedicate yourself to larger problems.

You like being at the focus of attention and having everyone listen to you. Your eloquence and broadminded thinking may be interpreted by some as presumptuousness. However, you are also capable of acquiring knowledge with perseverance and impart it to others in a convincing manner. A bit of drama and humor belong to the way you have exchanges with others. Consequently, your way of expressing yourself is generous and heartfelt.

Mercury in the First House

Intellect, Knowledge, and Language in the Showcase of the Personality

Communication with your fellow human beings is an important component of your life. You need conversation and want to exchange your thoughts and ideas. The many discussions that you probably get involved in are a rhetorical practice field and you are quite likely to be correspondingly agile and skilled verbally.

You show a wide-awake interest in everything going on around you. Your mind is always immediately there; you attempt to analyze and understand every situation in thought or conversation. At the same time, your tendency to explain everything and classify it into mental cubbyholes can earn you the reputation of being overly rational. You need an appropriate profession or environment in which you can primarily respond to the surrounding world in thinking and speaking.

Mercury/Mars in Tension

Thinking and Acting are Two Different Things

Thinking and communication are in conflict with assertion and actions. Whatever you do, your mind will resist it. And the other way around, the part of your personality that takes action doesn't accept without reservations what you think and say. Perhaps you first act and then think about things afterwards; or you consider your actions in detail without ever implementing them. Heated discussions probably stimulate you, and you easily let yourself get entangled in a dispute.

This state of imbalance may be an occasion for you to intensively examine your way of thinking and acting. Consequently, you can probably observe how you alternately identify with the one pole and then the other. In the course of life, you learn to use both increasingly better; for example, by thinking your actions through well, developing "battle plans," and clearly representing your opinions and, if necessary, asserting them in verbal exchanges. Once you have achieved a certain ability with this, it should be fun for you to use language combatively, whether as an attorney, in sales, or in other places.

Mercury/Uranus in a Harmonious Aspect

At Home in the Realm of Ideas and Concepts

You have a quick and clear mind. In your thoughts, you can get a general idea of things and situations and recognize correlations that remain hidden to others. You have a substantial intellectual grasp and are quick on the uptake. Your talent makes you suitable for technical occupations, for mathematics and computer technology. Your interests are diversified and unconventional. You appreciate stimulating discussions and like being quick-witted. In the process, you call a spade a spade; your unusual ideas and snappy comments aren't always met with applause. However, you like to frolic in the realm of visions and ideas. Possibilities that lie in the future fascinate you.

RELATIONSHIPS AND ESTHETICS

When Venus sparkles in the sky as the morning or evening star, it is an expression of harmony and beauty in terms of reality and as an astrological symbol. It stands for the need to be balanced and have things in common, for the striving to build bridges. It is a distinctly feminine and erotic principle and corresponds to the aspect within us that longs for a partner, seeks and creates relationships, and can be open for and enjoy all the beauty in life. The Venus in us chooses what is appropriate and agreeable for us from the diversity of people and things.

Venus in Virgo

Beauty Can Also Be Useful

You need solid ground beneath your feet in a relationship. You tend to express love and affection in a rather inconspicuous manner. Falling in love head over heels doesn't correspond to your taste; you prefer a methodical and sensible approach. Before you enter into a new partnership, you wait for a while, think about the situation, and carefully consider the pros and cons. In addition to reliability, faithfulness, physical closeness, and sensuality, the practical and sensible aspect is important to you. There should be a harmonious balance between giving and taking. Otherwise, you easily feel taken advantage of and can then react to your partner with criticism and pettiness.

Beauty is closely associated with practical considerations for you. Beautiful things that are only there to please the eye easily cause you to question whether they are worth spending the money on them. Beautiful things should also fulfill a purpose. On the other hand, you have certain esthetic standards for the articles of daily use, creating both a practical and beautiful environment for yourself as a result.

Venus in the Third House

Encounters within the Cultural Framework

You need a great many people around you with whom you can have conversations and discuss a thousand things. With your partner, you would like to talk about mutual interests, cultural occasions, and current events. Intensity in a relationship is probably less important to you than a good comradely conversation. You also like a cultural or intellectual environment and appreciate the beauty of the language. Or, if this doesn't apply, a hidden streak within you longs for this.

The joy of flirting can also be a reason for you to start a relationship. The better you train your own taste, get a bit of culture here and do something there for the sake of it, the more enjoyable life will become. For you, harmony includes something light and bright with a great deal of variety. This applies to relationships, as well as everything else that makes life beautiful and pleasant.

With great probability, the type of woman who fascinates you personifies many of these qualities. This means you like flexible, intellectual, and verbally skilled women who bring a lively exchange of thoughts and companionship into the relationship.

Venus/Mars in a Harmonious Aspect

Carefree Interactions Between Man and Woman

You seem to have inherited an ability of finding a skillful middle course between active and passive, between being assertive and conciliatory. You sense when you should apply your energy and initiative and when you should give in and lean back. As a result, you hardly let yourself be stressed but alternate between work and rest in your own rhythm. If necessary, you are also quite adaptable without losing your individuality in the process.

Your relationships are presumably intense and bring variety into your life. You interact with the opposite sex in a carefree and natural way. Your strong erotic aura attracts others like a magnet, and you also feel drawn to sensual people of both sexes. Women can hardly resist your charm. You know how to seduce your partner in quite a subtle way, and probably enjoy it very much. You have a realistic and relaxed attitude toward sexuality. A relationship without sexuality is inconceivable for you, just as you can't imagine sexuality without a relationship.

ACTIONS AND ASSERTION

Mars symbolizes masculinity and physical strength, as well as the capacity to take action and be assertive. It represents the part of our personality that is active in the outer world and wants to cause things to happen, that makes decisions and simply does things without asking, and that doesn't shy away from conflicts or confrontations. If something doesn't suit us, this is the part within us that defends itself and, if necessary, reacts with aggression and anger.

Mars in Taurus

Prudent and Tenacious

You act in a way that is oriented toward reality, prudent, thorough, and persevering. Perhaps you need a longer starting phase. However, once you get going, you can hardly be stopped. Whatever you do will be a job well done, and you do it tenaciously to the point of obstinacy. Your manner of taking action is deliberate, calm, and tends to be conservative. Once you have acquired and tested a work method with positive results, you won't give it up all that easily for the sake of something new. You are good at dealing with material things and possibly even have handicraft skills, a green thumb, or good abilities in managing money and property.

You don't appreciate it at all when someone gets too close to you without your permission and intrudes on your territory, so to speak. On the other hand, it takes a relatively long time for you to react. Your annoyance accumulates until you finally express your rage, which can be quite vehement.

Mars in the Tenth House

Profession and Public Life as a Challenge to Take Action

With effort, courage, and energy, you attempt to translate your professional goals into reality. In doing so, you always adhere to society's rules. If no strong individualistic character traits speak against it, you avoid activities that could let you appear to be an outsider.

You don't like it when your plans are foiled. Structures and authorities are a challenge to you. You take life from the serious side, taking action and bearing the responsibility and consequences for whatever you do. Profession and public life are the battlegrounds that you prefer, where you can practice and use your strength and ability to act. You want to have an effect. Long discussions and considerations are boring for you. The saying that "an ounce of practice is worth a pound of theory" could be your guiding principle in your professional life. You prefer to work in an area that demands much activity, assertive power, and authority of you; you are ambitious and hardly have to make an effort in asserting yourself with people who have authority. A certain degree of competition has a stimulating effect on your get-up-and-go. When you apply your energies in a purposeful way, you can develop abilities for a leading position.

THE SEARCH FOR MEANING AND GROWTH

Jupiter symbolizes the optimist in us, the part that wants meaning and expansion and sometimes gets out of control. It lets us look out for something higher and rise above the banalities of everyday life. It symbolizes the part in us that creates a relationship between things. It fills sober reality with a meaning by apportioning significance to each thing and imparting symbolic content to situations, words, and deeds.

Jupiter in the First House

The Meaning of Your Own Appearance

Very trusting and optimistic, you confront the surrounding world. Your behavior is self-confident and assured. You like appearing generous and full of initiative, giving others a positive image of themselves. Sometimes, your jovial behavior can almost become overbearing.

You have a great deal of initiative, as well as wanting to change the world and expand your horizons. A life without challenges is like a soup without salt. You love risks. It's not very difficult for you to start something new, even if you don't know what it will turn out to be. You are capable of enthusiasm and know how to convince others of your enterprises. When you set loose too much enthusiasm on your fellow human beings, you may overtax them with your ideas. You go through life with the attitude that you will succeed at almost everything and are hardly afraid of failure. With this optimism and self-confidence, you achieve things that others would probably not even attempt.

Jupiter/Uranus in a Harmonious Aspect

The Desire to Cast Aside Everything Heavy

A voice may whisper to you at times, saying why don't you simply cast aside the accustomed everyday life, fly away, and break through all boundaries. Something in your personality seeks independence and freedom of movement. It defends itself against a life that is too staid and has too many restrictions. This gives you a dash of adventurous spirit, originality, unconventional ideas, and - in as far as you aren't careful - a certain presumptuousness since it knows no consideration of personal motives and feelings. When this part of you is given a chance in the figurative sense - as well as possibly in the very concrete sense - you then risk a parachute jump. For a short time at least, you raise the limitations and enjoy the view from an elevated perspective. Such experiences have the effect of you scrutinizing the meaning of life and recognizing the relativity of an opinion. You have a good antenna for future possibilities and tend to have unusual interests.

Jupiter/Pluto in Conjunction

Living Life to the Full

A concentrated energy - more or less - slumbers within you. It strives for the greatest and can be quite extreme. It wants to live life to the max and passionately searches for meaning. It scrutinizes every ideology and never really lets you come to rest. However, this part gives you a lucky touch, courage, and energy in order to achieve the extraordinary. It can become an enormous motivation when you have found a goal that gives your life deeper meaning.

Religion and church institutions may demand your attention time and again; for example, you object to the dogmas and power of the church. Loyalty is also a central theme for you. You defend yourself against injustices and are sometimes not too removed from fanaticism by doing so.

Accept this inner demon and don't shy away from expressing your own greatness. This possibly indirect search for truth and meaning lets your inner strength develop. In the process, the emphasis is on the path and not so much on the goal.

THE SEARCH FOR STRUCTURE AND ORDER

Saturn symbolizes the raised index finger within us, the inner authority with which we set ourselves boundaries and demand structure and responsibility from ourselves. The Saturn aspect within us is often very rigid, and then we block ourselves. However, if we have learned during the course of the years to reduce our fears and our standards of perfection, we will primarily experience Saturn as inner stability and security. In both the concrete and figurative sense, it symbolizes our backbone.

Saturn in the Eleventh House

The Demands of a Perfect Effort in the Group

Your sense of duty in groups and among friends is considerable. You expect to offer something special or be particularly perfect, and make an effort to achieve this goal. This means that you are willing to invest extensive effort for friends and groups; on the other hand, you are disconcerted by the feeling of losing your freedom if you get too involved. On the one hand, you want to be included in and accepted by the community; on the other hand, you fear not simply being a part of things and do a lot in order to be accepted and recognized. It's also conceivable that you don't like having people pay attention to you within a group because you think you don't meet the expectations of the others. You demand a great deal of effort from yourself on behalf of the community and tend to put yourself under pressure as a result.

The people around you value you because of your reliable and structured qualities. You can become an important member of any group. Without the pressure of having to be perfect, you can more easily assume responsibility in a circle of like-minded people and become a supporting pillar in the group; as a result, you can find a great sense of security and inner stability.

THE NEED FOR CHANGE

Uranus symbolizes the "wind spirit" within us that strives for psychological growth through constant change. It stirs up an inner unrest that drives us to set out time and again, that lets us seek variety and new experiences, and that keeps us from psychological and physical stagnation. It represents the wanderer within us who does not settle down for long anywhere. When something has barely become a habit, he tears down his tents and surprises us with new ideas. His originality knows no limits, and the same applies to his noncommittal nature.

Uranus in the Eleventh House

An Unconventional Group Ideal

Groups of likeminded people and friends provide you with variety in your life. As a result, your circle of friends tends to be unconventional. You also primarily display your originality within a circle of people with a similar "wavelength." You experience much tolerance and openness, variety, and stimulation in groups, but hardly any security and stability. Your joy of experimenting brings you new experiences and perceptions.

You probably value unconventional people because they make it possible for you to be totally yourself and throw your acquired and conformist aspects over board for once and for all. You have a great sense of freedom and equality for all that possibly motivates you to a social action. A type of yearning for a more humane world probably has you searching for unconventional ideals. You see the possibilities in the future, but may have difficulty in differentiating them from unrealistic castles in the air.

Uranus/Pluto in a Harmonious Aspect

The Dream of the Ideal World

You tend to not go into life completely but live a type of "higher concept" of it. Deep within you, you long for a state of being supported within a greater whole and somehow avoid becoming totally involved in this earthly existence. When you accept that you can never completely turn your high ideals and premonitions of a better world into reality, it will be possible for you to integrate some of this into your everyday life. You have - together with many other people your age - the less than simple task of giving expression to this vision.

THE LONGING FOR LIBERATION AND DEVOTION

Neptune symbolizes our mystical side that continually dissolves the boundaries between our ego-consciousness and the outside world, reminding us that we are part of a greater whole. This part lets us feel the longing for another world. It can equally be the motivation for reconnecting with something divine, for total devotion and a readiness to help, or for retreating from life and losing ourselves, which ultimately results in self-pity and chaos.

Neptune in the Third House

Reading Between the Lines

In the area of exchange and communication, the boundaries between illusion and reality are blurred. This may mean that you sometimes have to make an effort to express a thought or an inner image in words. You may often feel misunderstood as a result. Perhaps you attempt to compensate for this apparent shortcoming with logic, but only succeed in part with this approach. However, if you allow more space for your imagination and the inner images you can discover within yourself a fascinating world beyond logic and objectivity. What is between the lines and cannot be put into words then appears as equally valuable information next to what can be explained rationally.

So you may be interested in the world beyond reality, in images in the broadest sense such as those in film, photography, fairy tales, literature, or psychology. At the same time, you could develop a great ability for absorbing in intuitive moods and translating them into a level that everyone can comprehend. Examples of this are formulating certain things in a way that they can be understood and accepted or recognizing the fashion trends that are in the air.

THE "DARK" SIDE

Pluto symbolizes the most radical, energized, and passionate aspect of our personality that, especially because it is so bent on "all or nothing," also triggers fear. So we often feel this side of ourselves to be "dark" and inwardly turn away from it. Then we suppress this intensive part with somewhat the same effect as pressing a lid onto a pot with boiling water: We burn our fingers. We can only find an access to its power and liveliness when we accept this uncompromising and intensive part of ourselves and learn to deal with it. Then this aspect in particular can develop an enormous energy potential and lead us through and beyond profound crises.

Pluto in the First House

The Predisposition for a Strong Personality

You only show the tip of the iceberg of who you are. You excel at controlling your thoughts and feelings. Your face only reveals what the world is permitted to see. If someone asks you something too personal, you react with reserve. On the other hand, you are very good at looking at other people's cards and recognizing their true nature.

Time and again, you ask yourself the question: Who am I?, possibly also in the form of identity crises. You have a strong charismatic aura that appears to say: Watch out, don't fool with me. Others tend to respond in a reserved way to this, and your own energy may sometimes even frighten you. When a person has the power to make others small just through his or her appearance, the temptation is great to use this for accomplishing egotistical goals. The challenge is using this power for the good of all.

Your outer appearance radiates intensity and passion. It is important that you also inwardly stand up for your power and strength because your aura practically challenges your fellow human beings to measure their forces against yours. If you do not stand up to this, you may easily assume a victim attitude. You have the potential for a strong personality, but you must learn to direct your inner volcano into the appropriate channels and neither suppress it nor live it out at the expense of others.

These pages aren't meant to say: "This is how you are! You do this and that, and this is how you think," even if the formulation sometimes may give this impression. These pages contain an overview of the symbolism of the planets, as they stood in the heavens at the time and place of your birth. According to experience and statistics, there are parallels between the planetary constellations and character traits. We can use these as guides through the countless aspects of our own personality, more consciously recognizing our motivations and behavior patterns with their help.

These pages are meant to give you more clarity and some sudden insights about yourself, as well as accompany you on a portion of your path in life.
